East of Nakba (65)

Part III. Chimera

Chapter 65 Virus came to Earth on a meteorite (3)

The Arabian Oryx was hunted by human beings due to its graceful figure. The number decreased gradually and they were on the verge of extinction. Human beings then changed to breeding them artificially under the pretext of preserving the species.

When human beings had no competitors and became the strongest life on the earth, they began to play like the Messiah of the planet. They embarked on the protection of certain species. The object to be protected was strictly in line with the value standards of human beings. The creatures that might cause harm to human beings was eradicated. Only those that were recognized as harmless and valuable was subject to the preservation of species. The Arabian Oryx was recognized as an object to be protected by human beings. Galaxy could continue to live inside Arabian Oryx for the time being.

However, the Galaxy had a serious flaw. It was that her settlement was in the reproductive organs of the host. Galaxy made gradually weaken the reproductive ability of the host. The gradual extinction of the Arabian Oryx was not only due to the foreign enemies, but also the Galaxy itself. She had no way of knowing this, but she instinctively acknowledged that her living condition was getting worse.

The Galaxy started to search for a new host. The search was carried out by trial and error. The multiplied Galaxy tried to transfer to new host by means of oral infection. The stronger the viability and fertility of the host, the brighter the future. The ultimate host was definitely the human beings. Galaxy looked for a chance to be transplanted to human beings.
